MOLDAW RESIDENTS SELECTED TO PARTICIPATE IN NEW SOFTWARE TECHNOLOGY PILOT PROGRAM LAUNCH

For several months now, there has been a growing trend in Silicon Valley as companies are developing new apps with a specific focus on senior care. In order to plan for the "silver tsunami" that is right around the corner, many businesses in the area and highlevel executives, particularly from the sandwich generation, have been motivated to take matters into their own hands. They are helping launch new apps or partnering with large healthcare technology firms in order to simplify processes and meet the needs of older adults. Cubigo, Inc., is among such companies and involves an open, independent, webbased platform with apps designed to help seniors have more control over their needs and to maintain their independence longer. About a dozen residents at the innovative retirement community in Palo Alto, Moldaw Residences, were part of a six-week pilot project, and they were testing out the Cubigo software on their personal smartphones, iPads and other devices of their choice. The software involves Cubes™ or small applications that can be added and adapted to the user-friendly dashboard to encompass individual needs.

"For me, it has been for the better.", said Carole Stein, Moldaw resident. "Apps for driving services like Uber, for example, have allowed me to stay connected in ways I didn't think I could after I gave up driving. I am able to get out and enjoy life right in front of me because a car is waiting for me to do so in a matter of minutes."

Al Leveckis, Chief Operations Officer of Cubigo, Inc. says "Our goal ultimately is to enhance the lives of older adults through technology and empower them to do more for themselves in the exact way they want things done. This platform is centered on the user's personalization to select apps for precisely what they need during day-to-day life at the retirement community. From meal reservations to maintenance requests to health-focused needs like weight-monitoring or medication reminders, apps cover a wide variety of services. We help integrate the services and data so that individuals stay connected and supported."

The main objectives of the project are simplification and customization. There are three main pillars: Cubigo Social, which can involve storing contacts, updating shared calendars with event reminders as well as messaging and making calls among other options; Cubigo Care, which provides insight for self-care through medication plans and reminders and even links to activity sensors or weight scales; and Cubigo Services, which assists with basic comfort through specific products, meal deliveries, order history and news sources presented in a simple, consistent format without advertising.

LV MAR

Located in the midst of beautiful downtown Redwood City, and the next evolution of Chef Manuel's vision, a casual, up-scale experience, LV Mar is where comfortable atmosphere, and the finest in gastronomy meet. It's all about the highest-quality ingredients, the most refined techniques, and a unpretentious environment where satisfied guests are not just clients ... they're a part of the recipe. The atmosphere is modern-minimalist with white walls and tablecloths, aquamarine accents and chrome and glass light fixtures. The only artwork is a bright triptych opposite the large bar, which seats at least a dozen and has a nook with low tables perfect for drinks and appetizers.

Always inventing, while respecting traditional palettes, Chef Manuel creates menus that are new, fresh, and yet familiar. Continuing his long list of successes that includes properties like Bucca Giovanni, One Market, The Left Bank, and (his own) La Viga, Chef would like to invite you to LV Mar... the same passions, the same expertise, taken to a new level. The Ceviche de Camarón had nice, fat pieces of shrimp and a pleasant heat tempered by the addition of sweet potato and served with addictive coconut chips. A fairly traditional and scrumptious queso fundido was topped with wild mushrooms and served with fresh, handmade blue corn tortillas. (The type of corn may change with the season.) The modestly priced wine list features wines almost exclusively from Spain and South America. Although LV Mar doesn't have a full liquor license yet, it offers some cocktails made with spirit substitutes -- agave, rum like and vodka like "wines" that are fermented rather than distilled, with lower alcohol levels. Most drinks are on the fruity side, but the Rosa Mexicano, made with muddled prickly pear, and has a nice balance of tart and sweet. The cocktails make a fine complement too many of the appetizers. What are some of the more popular dishes at LV Mar, include the crusted halibut, grass-fed ribeye, octopus, scallop and halibut mixed ceviche, and duck leg stew on corn masa cups. LV Mar serves quality food and provides top-notch service. In terms of ambiance, LV Mar is "casual and elegant," Got children? No problem. LV Mar is a family-oriented restaurant, providing a kids' menu.
